

Independent Investigation

Description of the Top Three Questions

Name _____
Class ____ Date _____

After completing the Brainstorming sheet by filling out fifteen questions, checking off whether they are Interesting, Purposeful, Observable, Changeable, or Measureable, and starring the top three that fulfill all five of those boxes, you'll move on to this sheet. The top three questions you've selected must meet all five requirements because in this sheet you'll be describing why you think it meets those criteria. Write three sentences or more describing how it meets those criteria.

Question #1: _____ ?
How can this experiment be purposeful to society?

What methods will you be using to observe and experiment on it?

What are some variable that you will introduce to change the method of testing?

What method will you be using to measure the progress in your experiment?

Question #2: _____ ?
How can this experiment be purposeful to society?

What methods will you be using to observe and experiment on it?

What are some variable that you will introduce to change the method of testing?

What method will you be using to measure the progress in your experiment?

Question #3: _____ ?

How can this experiment be purposeful to society?

What methods will you be using to observe and experiment on it?

What are some variable that you will introduce to change the method of testing?

What method will you be using to measure the progress in your experiment?
